

Cirqlback — Coordinator Sales Playbook

Coordinator Sales Playbook · User Manual

For: Community Coordinators selling Cirqlback to local businesses. Goal: turn the prospects in your territory into paying businesses — and build recurring income doing it.

This is your field guide: what to say, to whom, and how to close. Pair it with the Coordinator Guide (how the dashboard works). Everything here is a starting point — the best pitch is the one in your own words, tuned to the shop in front of you.

It's built into your dashboard. Every pitch below is available live: click the megaphone on any business in your territory table to get its tailored, name-personalized script and a printable one-pager on the spot. This playbook is the "why" behind that button.

Why you'll win

You're not cold-selling software. You're a local partner offering a shop owner three things they already want: more repeat customers, a web presence they never got around to building, and a spot in a neighborhood network that sends foot traffic their way. And you can let them try it free for six months. That combination opens doors.

The three things to remember:

1. Lead with the cluster, not the shop. One "let's put the downtown cafés on a coffee trail" pitch can sign five businesses at once — and each one wants in once their neighbors are in.
2. Sell the outcome, not the features. Owners don't buy "NFC tags." They buy "the regular who comes back on a slow Tuesday."
3. The free trial removes the risk. Your close is almost always "the first six months are free — let's set it up right now."

The money math (this is your business too)

You earn a share of everything the businesses in your territory pay — subscriptions and add-ons, every month, for as long as they stay. The default share is 70%.

What you earn per business, per month (at 70%):

WHAT THE BUSINESS IS ON	THEY PAY / MO	YOU EARN / MO
Core plan	$19.99	$13.99
Pro plan	$49.99	$34.99
Hosted Business Page add-on	$14.99	$10.49
Custom Tap-Screen Branding	$7.99	$5.59
Advanced Analytics Pack	$12.99	$9.09
Map Priority Placement	$14.99	$10.49
Contest & Scavenger-Hunt Builder	$14.99	$10.49

It's recurring — sign a shop once and it pays you every month. That compounds fast:

A realistic path to $500/month recurring:

- Sign 20 Core shops → $20 \times $13.99 = \text{$279.80/mo}$

- Half add the Hosted Page ($10 \times $10.49$) → +$104.90 → $384.70/mo
- Upgrade 5 to Pro ($5 \times +$21.00$) → +$105.00 → ≈ $490/mo

That's under two dozen businesses. A mature territory of 40+ with a healthy Pro/add-on mix runs $700–900+/month — recurring, while you're onboarding the next ones.

Annual plans lock them in. A business that pays yearly gets two months free and commits for a year — steadier income for you. Offer it once they've seen value.

Do the math in-app. You don't have to work this out by hand — the Grow your earnings tool in your dashboard's Revenue panel models your territory at your share rate and tracks progress toward a monthly goal.

The universal pitch arc

Run this in any doorway. Adapt the words; keep the order.

1. Hook — a 10-second question in their language that names a problem they feel.
2. Pain — name it before they do ("the punch cards get lost," "you don't have a website," "the shop two doors down gets the foot traffic").
3. Map to their world — the 2–3 features that matter most for their type (not all of them).
4. Picture it — one concrete scenario using their products and their customers.
5. Money math — "it's $20/month; one extra returning customer a week more than covers it."
6. Objection — answer the one they raise (see the cheat sheet).
7. Close — "First six months are free. Let's set it up right now." Onboard them on the spot.

The 60-second explainer (memorize this)

"Cirqlback turns visits into a game your customers actually play. You put a little tap sticker by your register — customers tap it with their phone and earn rewards, no app to download. It keeps them coming back, it puts you on a local discovery map, and it gives you a clean one-page website with your hours, specials, and rewards. The best part: I can connect you with the other shops nearby to run a shared 'trail,' so you send each other customers. It's twenty bucks a month, and the first six months are free."

Business-type playbooks

Each shop is different. Lead with what lands for their type.

Café / coffee shop

- Hook: "You know how the paper punch cards end up lost in a drawer? What if the card lived on their phone and pulled them back on a slow morning?"
- Their pain: repeat business is everything, mornings are streaky, and loyalty punch cards get forgotten.
- Lead with: the loyalty punch-card (tap goal, e.g. buy-5-get-1), the hosted page with today's specials, and — the closer — a downtown coffee trail with the other cafés.
- Picture it: "They tap the sticker with each coffee. When they're one away, we can nudge them — 'your free latte's waiting.' That's a Tuesday visit you weren't getting."
- Their ROI: "It's $20/month. Your average ticket's what, six bucks? One extra return visit a week already pays for it — everything past that is yours."
- Top objection — "I already have a rewards app": "Does it put you on a shared map and run a trail with the other shops downtown? That's what brings you new faces, not just repeat ones."
- Recommended bundle: Core + Hosted Page (Starter trial to begin).
- Close: "Six months free. Let's set your punch-card up and get a sticker on the counter."

Restaurant

- Hook: "What if slow weeknights had their own reward — and you could fill a few more tables without discounting your whole menu?"
- Their pain: thin weeknights, hard to measure what marketing works, no easy way to reward regulars.
- Lead with: a weeknight loyalty/discount campaign, tap & redemption analytics (what actually drives visits), and the hosted page as their menu-and-hours home.
- Picture it: "A 'tap on your 3rd visit, dessert's on us' card. Regulars chase it; you see exactly how many redeemed it and when."
- Their ROI: "One extra table a week covers the whole month several times over — and you'll see the numbers to prove it."
- Top objection — "I don't have time for another system": "You don't run it — customers tap, it tracks itself. You just redeem a code now and then. I'll set the whole thing up for you today."
- Recommended bundle: Core (+ Advanced Analytics if they're data-driven).
- Close: "Free for six months. Let's put your weeknight offer live before the dinner rush."

Bar / brewery / winery

- Hook: "Want to be a must-stop on a tasting trail that sends groups from tap room to tap room?"
- Their pain: discovery — people don't know they exist; weekend groups follow the crowd.
- Lead with: the cross-business trail (the killer feature here), map discovery, and contests/scavenger hunts for events and releases.
- Picture it: "A 'Yakima Ale Trail' — tap at four spots, earn a prize. Groups make a day of it, and they land on your bar because you're on the map and the trail."
- Their ROI: "A trail brings in parties, not singles. One group of four on a slow Saturday is your whole month."
- Top objection — "We're already busy on weekends": "This fills the weeknights and the shoulder season — and puts you in front of the tourists who don't know you yet."
- Recommended bundle: Pro (for multi-stop trails and the included hosted page) + Scavenger-Hunt Builder for events.
- Close: "Let's get you on the trail with the others — first six months free. Who else should I bring in?"

Salon / spa

- Hook: "What if the website you keep meaning to build was live this afternoon — with your services, hours, and a rebooking nudge built in?"
- Their pain: no real website, no-shows and gaps in the book, rebooking is manual.
- Lead with: the hosted page (their "website they never built"), reminders to bring clients back, and Custom Branding so it's unmistakably theirs.
- Picture it: "Your /biz page with services, hours, and a photo gallery — share it on Instagram. And a 'time for your next visit?' nudge to clients who favorited you."
- Their ROI: "Your average service is what, $50+? One rebooked client a month covers Core twice over — the page alone is worth it."
- Top objection — "My clients aren't techy": "There's nothing to download — they tap or click a link. And the page just gives them your info in one place; that part's for everyone."
- Recommended bundle: Core + Hosted Page + Custom Branding.
- Close: "Let's build your page right now — free for six months — and get the link on your Instagram today."

Retail / boutique

- Hook: "How do people find you versus the shop two doors down? What if you were the highlighted pin on the local map?"
- Their pain: foot-traffic discovery, competing with nearby shops and online.
- Lead with: Map discovery + Map Priority, a loyalty/points campaign, and a shopping-district trail with neighbors.
- Picture it: "You're the boosted pin when someone browses shops nearby — and part of a 'shop the block' trail that rewards visiting three stores."
- Their ROI: "A handful of map-driven walk-ins a month, average basket $30 — that's the plan paid for and then some."
- Top objection — "I sell mostly online": "This is your local hook — it drives the in-person visits and gives you a page to point everyone to. It complements the online side."

- Recommended bundle: Core + Map Priority (+ Hosted Page if they lack a site).
- Close: "Let's get you on the map and on the block trail — six months free to prove it out."

Objection-handling cheat sheet (works for any type)

- "I don't have time." → "You don't run it — customers tap, it tracks itself. I set it up for you today; you just redeem a code now and then."
- "My customers won't use it." → "There's no app to download — they tap a sticker or click a link. And the rewards are the draw; people chase a free coffee."
- "It's too expensive." → "It's $20 a month, and the first six are free. One extra returning customer usually covers it. If it doesn't earn its keep, you walk."
- "I already have loyalty (Square/Toast/a punch card)." → "Those reward the regulars you already have. Cirqlback also brings new faces — the map and the shared trails with nearby shops. That's the part they can't do."
- "I tried something like this before." → "What went wrong? Usually it's setup and adoption — I handle the setup, and there's nothing to download. Try it free for six months and judge for yourself."
- "Let me think about it." → "Totally fair — and since it's free for six months, there's nothing to think about on cost. Let's turn it on now; you can always stop. What's the worst that happens?"

Your force multiplier: the cross-business trail

Don't sell one shop at a time. Sell a cluster:

1. Pick a theme + area — "downtown coffee trail," "Yakima ale trail," "shop-the-block."
2. Line up an anchor (the most respected shop) first — others follow a name they trust.
3. Pitch each neighbor: "You're on the trail with [anchor] and the others — tap at all of them, customers earn a prize, and you send each other traffic."
4. Launch the trail from your dashboard and feature it on the map.

One trail = several sign-ups, obvious mutual value, and lock-in (no shop wants to be the one not on it).
