

CirqlCade — Playtest & Tuning Notes

A fill-in-the-blanks worksheet for playtesting all 50 games. Play each on your phone, then fill the blanks (or just dictate the notes to me and I'll transcribe + turn them into tuning changes). Every game is mechanically verified but nothing is feel-tuned yet — these notes are how we fix that.

Live at cirqlback.onrender.com — open /arcade (the spin wheel) or go straight to each game's route below.

How to score each game (shared rubric)

Fill this line for every game. Keep it fast — gut reaction is the point.

Fun ★ __/5 Controls __/5 Speed [slow · ok · fast] Difficulty [easy · ok · hard]
Readability __/5 Juice __/5 Length [short · ok · long] Verdict [KEEP · TUNE · REWORK · CUT]

What each axis means:

- Fun — did you want to play again? (the only score that really matters)
- Controls — responsive + intuitive? Right control scheme (dial vs drag vs tap)?
- Speed — overall pace. Too slow = boring, too fast = unfair/unreadable.
- Difficulty — is round 1 fair and does it ramp at the right rate?
- Readability — can you always tell what's happening / what to do? Clutter?
- Juice — do hits/scores/deaths feel good? (particles, sound, haptics, screen shake)
- Length — is a single run the right size for one-thumb phone play?
- Verdict — KEEP (ship as-is) · TUNE (good, needs number tweaks) · REWORK (right idea, wrong execution) · CUT (drop it).

Then three quick lists per game:

- + Add — what's missing / would make it better
- - Cut — what's annoying / should go
- 🔪 Feel — anything about speed, weight, timing, sound, colors, difficulty spikes

Knobs under each game = the things I can turn without a redesign (speeds, spawn rates, sizes, timers, cooldowns). If your note maps to a knob, tuning is fast; if not, it's a rework.

Global questions (answer once, across the whole set)

- Which 3–5 games are your favorites (lead with these)? → _____
- Which feel weakest / most cuttable? → _____
- Is the spin-wheel /arcade picker fun to use? Too slow / just right? → _____
- Is the shared look (neon, colors, fonts) consistent and appealing across all of them? → _____
- Do the controls feel the same game-to-game where they should (dial, buttons, tap)? → _____
- Sound overall — on by default? too much / too little / annoying? → _____
- Haptics (vibration) — good, overdone, or missing where you want it? → _____
- Right difficulty for the audience (casual shop customers, one-handed)? → _____
- Any game that confused you on first load (didn't know what to do)? → _____
- Which deserve the reward-bridge perk catalog first (the moat)? → _____

Priority playtest order (suggested)

Play these first — they're the deepest / most likely to need tuning, so your notes here have the highest leverage:

1. Beat (#21) ★ rhythm — the standout; audio-sync is make-or-break
2. Survivor (#45) ★ — needs an upgrade-choice decision from you
3. Coil (#48) ★ — Zuma aiming feel
4. Keep (#49) ★ — TD economy balance
5. Command (#47) ★ — RTS AI difficulty
6. Dodge (#42) ★ — bullet-hell hitbox fairness
7. Bounce / Defender / Pop (#1–3) — the flagship trio customers hit first

Then sweep the rest in any order. The zen shelf (Bloom, Breathe, Spiro, Tide, Weave) mostly needs a "is it actually calming + beautiful?" yes/no.

After you fill this in

Hand it back (or dictate) and I'll:

1. Turn every 🔍 Feel note into a specific engine-constant change (the Knobs map notes → code).
2. Batch the TUNE games into tuning commits; queue REWORK games as their own tasks.
3. Action any CUT calls (pull from registry).
4. Optionally mirror this as Linear issues (one per game, or one "Tuning pass" project with sub-issues) if you'd rather track it there.
